

Tales of the Un-Inspected
Home 86

This home is owned by the same company as homes 75 and 85.

This home has been open for years but even I could not obtain the top secret documents known as CQC public inspection reports.

The CQC list this home as not yet rated, which implies it is a new service however that is not the case, I have been told all the homes on this site have been re-registered as new whilst being under the same owners.

Going by what I know about these owners in relation to homes 75 and 85 I can see why they would wish their past inspection history to be wiped, I do not see why the regulator should protect such a company at the cost of failing the vulnerable. This says much about the CQC and where its loyalties lie.
